Chelsom launches brand-new catalogue

Two years of in-house design has resulted in the launch of Chelsom's brand-new 300-page lighting catalogue, Edition 23. As approximately 40% of the collection is new, designers, specifiers and hoteliers will find a range of lighting that covers the hotel and leisure sectors between two-star and six-star levels. Guest rooms, bathrooms, bars and public spaces are all catered for with an eclectic product offering that covers contemporary and traditional styles.

Most of the collection has been designed by Chelsom's managing director, Robert Chelsom, and his son Will. Robert comments: "I believe that many of our worldwide clients will appreciate the moves we have made into even sharper designs, higher quality levels and larger proportions for top end hotel suites and public spaces.

"In creating some of these more iconic products, we wanted to bring a sense of realism and value to the pricing. Designs whose prices have in the past restricted their use to public areas, will now fit perfectly into guest room budgets."

In response to feedback from surveys among Chelsom's major client groups, Edition 23 is the first catalogue from the lighting specialist to be fully available online. Specifiers can now view the complete collection and easily download images for presentation use via the company's website. All technical data is included and readily accessible.

Catalogues can be requested via the product page on Chelsom's website.
